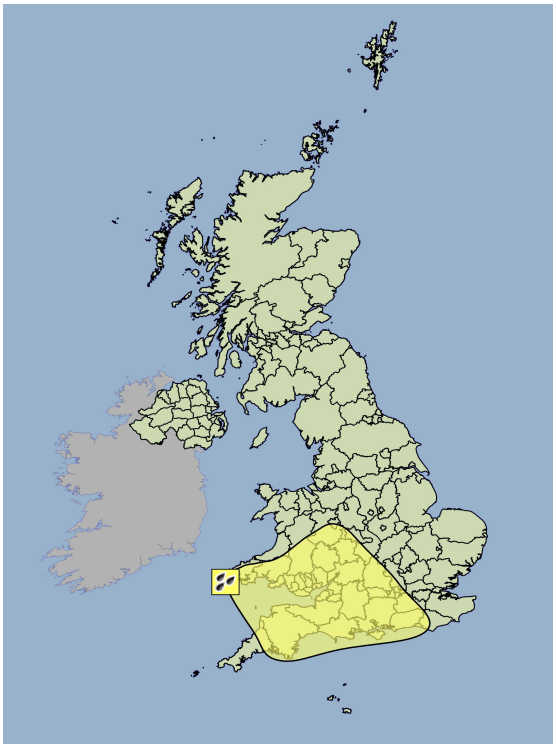
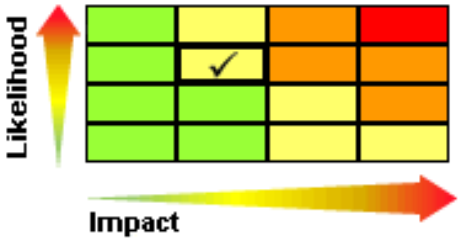
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A showery, broadly southwesterly airstream will affect England and Wales during Saturday and onwards into Sunday. Within this airstream some more organised zones of persistent rain are likely to develop and affect England and Wales at times. Lightning and gusty winds may be additional hazards around coastal areas in particular.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 08:00 on Sat, 09th Jan 2016 until 12:00 on Sun, 10th Jan 2016

Outbreaks of showery rain, heavy at times, will spread from the southwest during Saturday and Sunday. These outbreaks could locally produce rainfall accumulations of 10-20 mm in a few hours, and locally up to 30 mm over a longer period of time. Given saturated ground conditions please be aware that this could lead to some local flooding and disruption to transport.

This is an update to the warning to expand the yellow area across more of England and Wales.
